ABSTRACT

The purpose of this research is to establish a Model Law on the protection of Human Dignity. The collection and analysis of data adopted is a qualitative research comprising of documentary research. In-depth Interview and Participation Design - Co-Design and Hearing.

The results of the research found that all human beings are born with Human Dignity that is inherent to them since birth. It is significant in many countries, but the element of Human Dignity is not yet stipulated. Thailand has provisions protecting Human Dignity in the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand but there is no law that can prescribe an element of offense for prosecution when Human Dignity is violated. This research has therefore established a model law on the protection of Human Dignity with legal structure consisting of definitions; elements of offence of violation of Human Dignity; Protection of Human Dignity; and Penalties.

The research recommends that the Model Law on the protection of Human Dignity from research be enacted in the legislative process for enforcement.
